Forecast For West Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Monday 01 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Cloudy and foggy, becoming cold and wet midweek.

Today:
A cloudy but dry day for most, with fog patches lingering till late morning for many. This breaks up for some western areas, however, giving sunny spells. Mild in the sunshine, but colder under any cloud. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Tonight:
A cloudy night, with fog patches reforming in the east and spreading westwards into the early hours. Chilly, perhaps with frost forming in places. Minimum temperature 1 deg C (34 deg F).

Tuesday:
A cloudy day for most, with lingering fog patches. Some western areas may see cloud break up, allowing for some sunny spells. Cold under any cloud, milder in any sun. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Becoming cold and cloudy, with showers in the south Wednesday. Then turning drier Thursday, though still with some patchy light rain. Cloud cover then become patchy, giving sunny spells Friday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.